What is community
storytelling?

A close-up, low-angle shot of a person's face, focusing on their eyes and forehead. The person has dark, curly hair and is looking slightly upwards and to the right. The lighting is warm and soft, highlighting the texture of their skin and hair. The background is dark and out of focus.

Community storytelling can be any intentional interaction motivated by a desire to be known or know someone better.

Do you see me?
Do you hear me?
Am I important?

CONEY ISLAND CAFE

A large red advertisement for Coca-Cola. At the top, it features the Coca-Cola logo and a glass bottle. Below that, the text "Coney Island" is written in a white box. Underneath, it says "Since 1923" and "Cafe". In the center is a large illustration of a hot dog with mustard and a cherry tomato. To the right of the hot dog, the word "HOURS" is written above "MONDAY-FRIDAY" and "8:00am - 3:00 pm". At the bottom right, there is a small Coca-Cola logo.

love

”Instead of merely livable, I think we need to start thinking about how we make our cities more lovable.

I don't mean this in a "kum bay yah" kind of way, nor am I suggesting it's as simple as "let's all just get along."

Rather I'm advocating for the importance of deepening the relationships that we have with our cities and that our cities have with us.

When we love
something, we cherish it;
we protect it; we do extraordinary things for it.

If cities begin thinking of themselves as engaged in a relationship with their citizens, and if we as citizens begin to consider our emotional connections with our places...

we open up new possibilities in community, social and economic development by including the most powerful of motivators—the human heart—in our toolkit of city-making.”
